The members of the United States Olympic Trapshooting Team were recently finalized at the selection match in Tucson, Arizona through February and March, 2020. We are happy to announce that these Olympic athletes include two individuals with strong ties to the Foundation.

Madelynn Bernau (Maddy), from Martin Methodist University, will be one of two ladies comprising the U.S. Women's Olympic Trap Shooting Team. Maddy was the recipient of a financial grant from Higgins Branchini Shooting Foundation for 2020. We are very proud of Maddy's performance and are delighted to have been able to contribute to her training. Everyone at HBSF looks forward to watching Maddy compete in Tokyo this summer and wishes her great success.

Derrick Mein has been a member of the HBSF Advisory Committee since the Foundation's beginning. Derrick is one of the key members who review all the applications we receive and provide guidance to the Board of Directors regarding who should receive grants and for how much. Derrick has been the World Sporting Clay Champion and now, he has also qualified for the U.S. Men's Olympic Trap Shooting Team. We are extremely proud of Derrick and wish him the very best in Tokyo.

As always, we would like to thank our partners – including Park Cities Quail Coalition and Greystone Castle – for their ongoing support. These partnerships allow the Foundation to help dreams come true for competitive shooters like Maddy and Derrick.
